Dr. Sonder recently assumed Directorship of the Center for Equine Health after 17 years in Equine practice in Northern California. She showed hunters and Jumpers in New England from a young age and has lifelong experience with performance horses and equine industry. Dr. Sonder has special interest in equine lameness diagnosis and treatment, and realizes the necessity of equine research in the advancement of veterinary knowledge and equine welfare. The Center for Equine Health at UC Davis is dedicated to advancing the health, welfare, performance and veterinary care of horses through research, education, and public service.