

Dr. Weinstein attended Cornell University before moving on to the University of Illinois to receive his DVM (1986). After graduation, he worked as an associate for a few years before opening his own practice.

While running his practice he identified a real need for enhanced business acumen to truly make his practice successful. So, while managing and practicing full time, he attended night school to receive his MBA from the University of Redlands (1993).

As a result of this additional business knowledge, he was able to move his practice, expand his practice and then sell his practice to one of the corporate consolidators.

Besides being a practitioner, Dr. Weinstein was also a practice management consultant with Catanzaro and Associates (nationally) and PAW Consulting (regionally). He served as President of the Southern California Veterinary Medical Association and President of the California Veterinary Medical Association. Additionally, Dr. Weinstein is on the Board of Directors of the Charles and Mildred Schnurmacher Foundations, a private foundation.

In September 2000, Dr. Weinstein stepped away from clinical practice to work full time as a practice management consultant and to run Veterinary Practice Consultants Brokerage®, a veterinary specific job placement firm that assists veterinarians find new associates and new associates find jobs.

In September 2003, Veterinary Pet Insurance hired Dr. Weinstein to oversee their Claims Department as the Medical Director.

Dr. Weinstein has returned to the world of practice management consulting for both veterinary practices and veterinary related corporations under his own company PAW Consulting.

In December 2007, Dr. Weinstein was appointed Executive Director of the Southern California Veterinary Medical Association, the country's largest regional veterinary medical association with over 1200 members.

Dr. Weinstein has spoken and written extensively on veterinary practice management, team building, leadership, collegiality, working with allied industry, marketing, and many other topics focused on making the veterinary profession a better profession for all those affiliated with it.
