Dr. Wack is a Senior Veterinarian at the Karen Drayer Wildlife Health Center at UCDavis. He serves as service chief for Zoological Medicine and staff veterinarian at the Sacramento Zoo. Dr. Wack loves to pass on his passion for wildlife medicine to veterinary students. As part of the new UCDavis DVM curriculum, Dr. Wack leads a 10 week zoological medicine block. Ray's research interests include applying clinical pathology techniques to zoological medicine, developing anesthesia protocols and One Health solutions to conserving endangered species. Current conservation efforts are focused on Riparian Brush Rabbits, Grevy Zebra and Giant Garter snakes.
