The UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine has been ranked #1 by U.S. News and World Report.

Your pet can receive its life-long medical care from the BEST in the country.

And, you can receive an excellent education from the same caregivers to understand and make better decisions for your pet’s health. The Center for Continuing Professional Education at the UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine hosts education seminars throughout the year to keep you informed.

Our Wildlife and Exotic Animal Symposium (April 11-12, 2015) brings together the best speakers in the country to focus on the special species in our homes and in zoos. Our Keynote speakers are world-renown: Dr. Sharon Deem (St. Louis Zoo) will discuss “Advancing the Field of Conservation Medicine and International Wildlife Projects” and Dr. Joanne Paul-Murphy (UC Davis) will host a conversation on “Welfare in Exotic Species.”

The Small Animal Pain Conference (May 30, 2015) focuses on chronic pain management not only through the understanding of traditional medications but also employing integrative therapies such as rehabilitation and hospice care.

The One Health Symposium (August 29, 2015) bridges the interface between animals, people, and the environment. These engaging presentations include topics from the Ebola virus epidemic to antibiotic resistance, and autism to water management during drought.

The 3rd Annual Donkey Welfare Symposium (November 6-8, 2015) will also give donkey owners hands-on training in behavior in between lectures on health and wellness in this unique equine!

And it is all close to home – right on the campus of UC Davis! UC Davis is the place for your pet’s care and your educational home for information that makes them thrive.

For the most up-to-date schedule and registration information, go to www.vetmed.ucdavis.edu/ce or call 530-754-9223 or 530-752-3905.