OSCAR W. SCHALM LECTURESHIP “Transboundary and Emerging Diseases of Food Animals Threaten Global Food Security”

Saturday, October 6, 2018
12:00 pm, Gladys Valley Hall, Antech Auditorium 1020

2018 Oscar W. Schalm Lecturer
James A. Roth, DVM, Ph.D.

Jim Roth is a Distinguished Professor in the Department of Veterinary Microbiology and Preventive Medicine, College of Veterinary Medicine, Iowa State University. A member of the National Academy of Medicine, Jim received his DVM (1975) and PhD (1981) degrees from ISU and is a Diplomate in the American College of Veterinary Microbiologists. He worked as a veterinarian in a mixed animal practice from 1975 until 1977. Dr. Roth is the Director of the Center for Food Security and Public Health and the Institute for International Cooperation in Animal Biologics. Dr. Roth’s primary area of research expertise is immunity to infectious diseases of food producing animals. Dr. Roth received the Distinguished Veterinary Immunologist Award from the American Association of Veterinary Immunologists, the Distinguished Veterinary Microbiologist Award from the American College of Veterinary Microbiologists, the Public Service Award from the American Veterinary Medical Association, and the USDA APHIS Administrator’s award for lifetime achievements in animal health. He has testified before Congressional committees on biosecurity preparedness, on efforts to address bioterrorism and agroterrorism, and on the need for vaccines for foreign animal diseases. Dr. Roth served on the National Science Advisory Board for Biosecurity from 2005 to 2014.

Oscar W. Schalm
1909 - 1982

The Oscar W. Schalm Lectureship, established in 1988, honors the memory of Oscar W. Schalm, a founding faculty member of the UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine and an eminent teacher and research scientist in the fields of bovine mastitis, diagnostic veterinary hematology and clinical pathology. The lectureship promotes a tradition of scholarship, service and commitment to veterinary medicine and recognizes the lecturer’s distinguished contributions to the profession.

2018 CLASS OF 1958 ENDOWED SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENT: BRITTANY BAZELEY

EDUCATIONAL BACKGROUND

- Canyon Crest Academy, San Diego, CA
- University of California, Davis, Animal Science
- University of California, Davis, School of Veterinary Medicine, Class of 2018

I am honored to have been selected as the recipient of the Class of 1985 Endowed Scholarship.

My interest in veterinary medicine started as a technician working at equine referral hospitals, where I developed skills in emergency practice, surgery, client communication and teamwork. Attending UC Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, I contributed in a variety of areas ranging from participating in a research project with dairy cows to volunteering at various veterinary clinics, like the Helen Woodward Animal Center in San Diego, CA.

My primary area of emphasis is in equine specific ambulatory practice, which includes lameness, emergency and critical care, neonatology and integrative medicine. I also have a particular interest in the human-animal bond, human-animal emergency evacuation, grief, and animal-assisted therapy.

Following graduation, I plan to complete an internship at San Luis Rey Equine Hospital and dedicating some time to my hobbies, which includes snorkeling, scuba diving horse-back riding, hiking, swimming and learning American Sign Language.
